

We need your support to keep sharing the legacy of NAS Glenview!

The Glenview Hangar One Foundation is grateful for your past support and together we celebrate our success and remain excited about the future. Following are some of this year's highlights of activities from our efforts to maintain the current museum and build support for the new museum and flight academy.

Naval Air Station Glenview

Museum and Flight Academy

We are excited to report that the Glenview Park Board has approved the selection of Holabird & Root to provide the building feasibility study for the new Naval Air Station Glenview Museum and Flight Academy. This is a significant step toward a larger, permanent facility. While we are grateful the study has been supported by the Glenview Park Foundation, Kiwanis Club of Glenview-Northbrook and many private donors, it is crucial that we continue to fund our current museum's operation.

The NAS Glenview Museum participated in two events. The Glenbrook South High School football team invited local veterans for a "Meet and Greet" lunch during a summer practice and hosted a veterans recognition football game. It was a wonderful exchange between the players and veterans. This Fall, the museum also shared information about our mission with visitors and runners at Glenview Park District's first "Flying Fleet" run in Gallery Park.

The Foundation continues to operate the current NAS Glenview Museum in fulfillment of our mission.

Please Help Preserve The Heritage Of Naval Air Station Glenview

The Glenview Hangar One Foundation needs your financial support to continue operation and development of the new N.A.S. Glenview Museum and Flight Academy. We are committed to preserving the unique history of the air station and those who served there, in order to educate future generations. Our ongoing efforts are channeled into three primary categories:

- Operation of the current museum providing learning experiences and awareness of the N.A.S. Glenview history and its veterans
- Education programs with Bring It Home, Glenview, events and guest lecturers
- Development of the new museum and flight academy building feasibility study has begun for the site behind the Glenview Park Center or between the Park Center and Attea Middle School in Gallery Park. Once the study is completed, approved by the Glenview Park Board and full funding is achieved, the construction will begin on the new Naval Air Station Glenview Museum and Flight Academy.

Our Mission

"Commemorate the contribution and mission of those who served at NAS Glenview by educating future generations."

Please contribute generously, your contribution is both honorable and tax-deductible
